The News on Mr. Carpenter's Review of Mr. Ryan's Address.

The News of yesterday makes certain quotations from the writings of Jackson upon other subjects, to sustain the dogma of Mr. Ryan's address, that the constitution provides for all the exigencies of war; and concludes as follows:

"Washington and Jackson thought war could be carried on within and according to the constitution 'by constitutional means.' Neither of them ever imagined that they could carry on war without the authority of the constitution. Neither of them supposed that a 'military necessity' could exist for the violation of any one of the provisions of the constitution. The whole history of the constitutional convention shows that the constitution was intend ed to be adapted to all the exigencies of war, granting every power necessary to carry on war without rendering its own vi- knowledge of olation necessary. And the man who supposes that a state of war implies the hostility of the government to the constitution, [or a power in the administration to trample upon the constitution, or any one of its sa cred provisions, never had his mind enlightened with the first gleam of democracy

An editor never was more unfortunate, when trying to sustain an unfounded document, than was the editor of the News when he tried to draw consolation from JANESVILLE, . . . WISCONSID either Washington or Jackson.

The quotations have not the slightest application to the subject; but the whole public life of Jackson is a returation of Mr. Ryan's address.

To say nothing of his Florida campaign, in which he exercised innumerable imperial powers, which he and his friends justified, not by the constitution but by the necessities of the case, let us come directly to the last war, when Jackson had military command at New Orleans; and there we shall find many cases directly in point, and completely overthrowing Mr. Ryan's theory, that the constitution is a regulator of war, or a guide to the president and his military subordinates, in conducting the war. We shall see many things which Jackson did outside the constitution; and how he and his political friends defended his conduct. He first proclaimed martial law, and while it was in force, though after the re port of peace had reached the United States, the Louisiana Gazette, a newspaper printed at New Orleans, published a certain article which called from the old hern a communication denying its truth, which [he sent by an aid-de-camp to the offending editor, with a written order requiring its insertion in the next issue of the paper, and concluding as follows: "Henceforth it is expected that no publication of the nature of that herein alluded to and censured, will appear in any pa- Korosono and Fluid Lamps and Wicks. per of the city, unless the editor shall have previously ascertained its correctness, and | BRUSHES AND COMBS gained permission for its insertion from the proper source." During this state of things, Frenchmen attempted to elude the general's iron grasp, under so called protections from the French consul at New Orleans; and Jackson issued an order requiring all unnaturalized Frenchmen, together with the French consul. to leave New Orleans within three days, and not to return to within one hundred and twenty miles of the city, until the news of he ratification of peace should be officially published. This order was thought by some to be "outside the constitution;" and they protested against it in an article in the Louisiana Courier, (another newspaper of the city) which protest reads exceedingly like Mr. Ryan's address, and denounces the order as illegal and unconstitutional. Thereupon Jackson ordered the editor to headquarters, and compelled him to disclose the name of the writer, Louallier; and theu Jackson sent a file of soldiers to arrest Louallier. Indignaut that his article, which is in the very strain of Mr. Ryan's address, and written to prove that "the constitution provides for all the exigencies of war, should be regarded as cause for his arrest Louallier applied to Judge Hall of the United States court, for a writ of habeas corpus. That worthy functionary, believing like Mr. Ryan, that the constitution does indeed provide for all the exigencies of war; that the freedom of the press could not be trammelled, and that the arrest of Louallier, without process, in a loyal state was illegal allowed the writ. The officer came to serve it; and Jackson being informed of what had taken place, rushed to meet the officer, seized the writ of habeas corpus from his hand, and detained it; and immediately ordered Judge Hall to be arrested and imprisoned in the same room with the French expounder of the doctrine that the constitution provides for all the exigencies of war. Now, actions speak louder than words. This is what Jackson did; and that, too, in a loyal state; and this he did as a representative of the President, exercising by delegation from the then President, Mr. Madison, the President's executive power. Turn now to Mr. Ryan's address and see how it is supported by the authority of Gen. Jack-1. "We deny the power of the executive to suspend the writ of habens corpus in the loval states. We deny that this act, materially changing the laws of the land, is an executive act." Jackson suspended the writ; and then suspended the Judge who issued it; and all this in a loyal state.

2. " We deny the power of the executive to make arrests in the loyal states. 📑 There are federal courts in all the loyal states with full power and jurisdiction to punish all crimes against the United States." Jackson made arrests in a loyal state;

a loyal state. 3. " We deny the power of the executive to trammel the freedom of the press, by the suppression of newspapers." Jackson trammelled the freedom of the press; and if he did not do it by suppress-ng the newspaper, it was because the editor who had heard the lion's roar, did not provoke his paw. Here then, are three distinct planks of Mr. Ryan's platform, which exclude Jackson from the tents of the demogracy, as clearly as other portions exclude Douglas.

The News on Mr. Carpenter's Review of Mr. Ryan's Address.

The News of yesterday makes certain quotations from the writings of Jackson upon other subjects, to sustain the dogma of Mr. Ryan's address, that the constitution provides for all the exigencies of war; and concludes as follows:

"Washington and Jackson thought war could be carried on within and according to the constitution 'by constitutional means.' Neither of them ever imagined that they could carry on war without the authority of the constitution. Neither of them supposed that a 'military necessity could exist for the violation of any one of the provisions of the constitution. The whole history of the constitutional convention shows that the constitution was intended to be adapted to all the exigencies of war, granting every power necessary to carry on war without rendering its own violation necessary. And the man who supposes that a state of war implies the hostility of the government to the constitution, or a power in the administration to trample upon the constitution, or any one of its sacred provisions, never had his mind enlightened with the first gleam of democracy of any sort."

An editor never was more unfortunate, when trying to sustain an unfounded docu-ment, than was the editor of the News when he tried to draw consolation from either Washington or Jackson.

The quotations have not the slightest application to the subject; but the whole public life of Jackson is a rejutation of Mr. Ryan's address.

To say nothing of his Florida campaign, in which he exercised innumerable impe rial powers, which he and his friends justified, not by the constitution but by the necessities of the case, let us come directly to the last war, when Jackson had military command at New Orleans; and there we shall find many cases directly in point, and completely overthrowing Mr. Ryan's theory, that the constitution is a regulator or war, or a guide to the president and his military subordinates, in conducting the war. We shall see many things which Jackson did outside the constitution; and how he and his political friends defended

He first proclaimed martial law, and while it was in force, though after the report of peace had reached the United States, the Louisiana Gazette, a newspaper printed at New Orleans, published a certain article which called from the old hero a communication denying its truth, which he sent by an aid-de-camp to the offending editor, with a written order requiring its insertion in the next issue of the paper, and concluding as follows:

"Henceforth it is expected that no publication of the nature of that herein alluded to and censured, will appear in any paper of the city, unless the editor shall have previously ascertained its correctness, and BRUSHES AND COMBS gained permission for its insertion from the proper source."

During this state of things, Frenchmen attempted to elude the general's iron grasp, under so called protections from the French consulat New Orleans; and Jackson issued an order requiring all unnaturalized Frenchmen, together with the French consul, to leave New Orleans within three days, and not to return to within one hundred and twenty miles of the city, until the news of the ratification of peace should be officially published. This order was thought by some to be "outside the constitution;" protested against it in an article in the Louisiana Courier, (another newspaper of the city) which protest reads exceedingly like Mr. Ryan's address, and denounces the order as illegal and unconstitutional Thereupon Jackson ordered the editor to headquarters, and compelled him to disclose the name of the writer, Louallier; and then Jackson sent a file of soldiers to arrest Louallier. Indignant that his article, which is in the very strain of Mr. Ryan's address and written to prove that "the constitution provides for all the exigencies of war, should be regarded as cause for his arrest Louallier applied to Judge Hall of the United States court, for a writ of habeas corpus That worthy functionary, believing like Mr. Ryan, that the constitution does indeed provide for all the exigencies of war; that the freedom of the press could not be trammelled, and that the arrest of Louallier, without process, in a loyal state was illegal allowed the writ. The officer came to serve t; and Jackson being informed of what had taken place, rushed to meet the officer. seized the writ of habeas corpus from his hand, and detained it; and immediately or-dered Judge Hall to be arrested and imprisoned in the same room with the French expounder of the doctrine that the constitu ion provides for all the exigencies of war. Now, actions speak louder than words. This is what Jackson did; and that, too, in a loyal state; and this he did as a representative of the President, exercising by delegation from the then President, Mr. Madison, the President's executive power. Turn now to Mr. Ryan's address and see how

is supported by the authority of Gen. Jack-1. "We deny the power of the executive to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in the loyal states. We deny that this act, ma-For Sore Throat, so common among the Clergy, they terially changing the laws of the land, is an

3. "We deny the power of the executive to trammel the freedom of the press, by the suppression of newspapers."

Jackson trammelled the freedom of the press; and if he did not do it by suppressing the newspaper, it was because the editor who had heard the lion's roar, did not pro-

[Concluded from 1st page.] tive power of the president, deliberately violate these three fundamental dogmas of Mr. Ryan's address, but he and his friends afterwards, in many places, and during many years, in speeches before the people, in loyal arguments, in state papers, in reports and debates before congress, added the weight of their opinion and their votes to sustain the conduct of Gen. Jackson; and thus to condemn the principles of this state that the rebel loss in killed and wound-

After martial law ceased in New Orleans, the released Judge Hall called the conquering hero before him to teach him that tions. McClellan has sent out delachments thereafter he must conduct wars inside the constitution; must not trammel the freedom of the press; must not make arrests in loyal states, and a great many other things, all of which can be found in Mr. Ryan's address. Upon this occasion Jackson deivered a long paper in his defence over his own signature, fully justifying his conduct, which fills eleven columns of the Niles Register, and every paragraph of which is in deadly antagonism with the doctrine of Mr. Ryan's address—(8 Niles Register, I am hurrying everything forward to en-245). One paragragh will give an idea of deavor to press their retreat to the utmost.

"A writ of habeas corpus was directed for his (Louallier's) enlargement. The very case which had been foreseen, the very contingency on which martial law was intended to operate, had now occurred. The civil magistrate scemed to think it his duty to enforce the enjoyment of civil rights, although the consequences which have been described would probably result. An unbending sense of what he seemed to think the conduct which his station required, might have induced him to order the liberation of the prisoner. This, under the respondent's sense of duty, would have produced a conflict which it was his wish to avoid. No other course remained then, but to enforce the principles which he had laid down as his guide; and to suspend the exercise of this judicial power, whenever it interfered with the necessary means of defence. Tho only effectual way to do this was to place the judge in a situation in which his interference could not counteract the measures of defence, or give confidence to the muti nous disposition that had shown itself in so alarming a degree. Merely to have disbeyed the writ would have increased the evil, but to have obeyed it was wholly repugnant to the respondent's idea of the public safety and to his own sense of duty. Tho udge was therefore confined and removed beyond the lines of defence."

This document is signed with the great name, "Andrew Jackson." The judge, however, was inexorable, and

Gen. Jackson was fined one thousand dollars, and paid his fine. Subsequently, and after Gen. Jackson had been president, and had retired to private life, a bill was introduced into congross to refund the fine, upon the ground that the conduct of Jackson had been pervery point now under discussion.

Robert J. Walker, in the senate, submitted a report upon this subject, in which he so, we suppose, in the fight, [with Hooker, | said :

"The law which justified this act, was the great law of necessity; it was the law of self-defence. This great law of necessity—of defence of self, of home, and of country-never was designed to be abrogaday, announcing the arrival of the body of ted by any statute, or by any constitution." Gen. Reno, we cannot imagine why we have no further accounts of the struggle this subject, said: "I shall not contend that the constitution or laws of the United States authorize the declaration of martial law, by any authority whatever; on the contrary, it is unknown to the constitu-TION OR LAWS." And speaking of the argument that if the constitution did not authorize it, the general ought not to declare martial law, he says: "Who could tolerate this idea? An Arnold might, but no patriotic American could. It may be asked, upon what principle a commander can declare martial law, when it is conceded that the constitution or laws afford him no aumount to all written laws; and the justification of the officer who assumes the responsibility of acting upon that principle, must rest upon the necessity of the case." Mr. Livingston, in a written document submitted by Jackson to the court as a part of his defence, gave his opinion as follows: On the nature and effect of the proclamation of martial law by Major General Jackson, my opinion is, that such proclamation is unknown to the constitution and laws of the United States; that it is to be justified only by the necessity of the case," &c. The speech of Smith, of Connecticut, was equally pointed; and we might quote many columns from the discussions of those days, equally to the point. Douglas himself made his first great speech upon this clared their sentiments. Surely, with past subject; but as he is no longer recognized experiences, there is little encouragement as a democrat, the News would never for-

> One of General Jackson's letters, in justification of his military conduct, contains the following postscript: "It will be re"collected that in the revolutionary war, at a time of great trial, General Washington ordered deserters to be shot without trial. Captain Reed under this order, having arrested three, had one shot without trial; but he (General Washington) reprimended Reed for not shooting the whole three."

> After the maturest consideration, congress paid back the fine; and thus was cise of power which marked his New Orleans campaign. And how fully and perfectly is Jackson vindicated by the people, (the source of all authority) is the universal exclamation that now rises up from

Washington and Jackson met the exigencies of war, not with statutes and conof military law; and in the proper case with summary arrest, and speedy death. The severity and military vigor of Jackson's New Orleans compaign, would end this re-bellion in six weeks; hence Breckenridge labored to prove that the war, however, was limited by the constitution. The principle announced by Brecken-ridge is elaborated, polished, hid in meal, conceded truths, in this address; and democrats are hidden to fall down before it. The News, the organ of this doctrin in Wisconsin, says "the boys"-that is those who do not believe in it; -should read Jackson. Bowing to its authority, and willing to have our democracy corrected if it was in fault, sel and conduct of Andrew Jackson; and it appears that if this address embodies democratic opinions, democracy has sprung The New Albany, Ind., Ledger says | up since Jackson went down in the grave

Exciting News!

Latest advices from the recent battles ed is lifteen to twenty thousand. Our loss much less. The entire confederate army is panic stricken, and running in all direc in every direction, and expects to capture large numbers. Gen. Lee, of the rebel army, is badly wounded.

Headquarters Army Potomac, Sept. 15. H. W. HALLECK, GEN. IN CHIEF:

I have just heard from Gen. Hooker in the advance, who states the information is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and Gen. Lee stated last night publicly that he must admit they had been shockingly whipped. I am hurrying everything forward to en-(Signed) GEO. B. McCLELLAN.

MBJ. Gen. H. W. HALLECK : I am happy to inform you that General Franklin's success on the left was as complete as that on the center and right, and resulted in getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement in all parts of the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with but little assistance from our own artillery, very strong positions defended by artillery and infantry. I do not think our loss very severe.

The corps of Generals D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right, to Kentucky. We have taken a considerable number of prisoners. The enemy disappeared during the night. Our troops are now advancing in pursuit. I do not know where he will next be found. Signed, GEO. B. McCLELLAN, Maj. Gen.

Gen. Hooker has 1,500 rebel prisoners. It is said Gen. Lee gives his loss as 15,-000. We are following as rapidly as the men can move. GEO. B. MCCLELLAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. A special dispatch to the Bulletin, from Harrisburg, says the rebels have fallen back two miles." Longstreet's division has been sent to reinforce them. The battle will probably be resumed to-day. The rebel pickets have fallen back to within a mile and a half of Hagerstown. Stonewall Jackson has been whipped in hese battles. Miles held his position at Harper's Ferry, but the rebels were planting guns on the Maryland heights, commanding the position of Miles, and it is feared that he will have to surrender. The city is to-day in a complete furore of excitement. Crowds throng the streets, cheering enthusiastically for McClellan, for the signal victory he has obtained over the Franklin to day, as they were in position to BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.

A dispatch from the Monocacy says :-No firing has been heard this morning, and it is presumed that the battle has not been resumed. The body of Gen. Reno is expected here this afternoon."

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15. to attack this city. We have taken fortyseven prisoners altogether. One of these, a private of a Georgia regiment, brought in to-day, was almost naked. He says he has been in the rebel army nearly a year, and had but one pair of shoes in that time, and no blanket. He had been barefooted

There is no forward movement yet. Dispatches have been received from Buall at beadquarters, but nothing is made public. A messenger also arrived from den. Morgan at Cumberland Gap, but noover the Maryland victories. Washington, Sept. 15-10 г. м.

Special to Chicago Tribune .-- A special messenger, just in from Middletown, who eft there at half-past three o'clock, says the engagement of yesterday was a drawn batle, and the enemy retained their position in a gorge, into which they retreated, and

Gen. Burnside was in commacd after 2 o'elock p. m.

We get the following from a correspondent who was on the ground on Sunday evening: The fighting ceased to day with the setting of the sun, and both armies are busily engaged in removing the wounded and burying the dead. It is impossible at this time to tell the loss on our side during the day, but probably 200 or more. Rebel prisoners say their loss was heavy.

Ambulances are all busily engaged in taking the wounded to Middletown, where everything is in readiness for them. The sum of all our advices from Mary land seem to be that the late fight was an attack by our forces on the rear guard of the enemy, in which we drove them from | leg. their position, and made some captures. The credit of the operation is mainly due to Gen. Burnside, who fully justified the confidence of the country in his soldierly qualities. The enemy selected the position to be attacked, but was surprised by a de-

A large army is being gathered at Corinth. On Thursday night Eastport, Miss., was abandoned, and the troops stationed there, stores removed to Hamburg. On Friday, two regiments of infantry and a battery of artillery, under the command of Colonel Murphy, of the 8th Wisconsin, which were at luke, preparing to move towards Corinth, were attacked by Roddy's rebel cavalry, 2,000 strong, on the Jacinto road. The enemy were repulsed with the loss to them of fifteen rebels kill-ed, and to us of one man wounded-Capt. Johnson, of the 3d Michigan cavalry, shot through the head. The federals were again attacked, and again repulsed the enemy on the Eastport road, and still again on the Burnsville road. In the last attack although the enemy were discomfited, they succeeded in tearing up the railroad track and destroying the telegraph.

General Rosecrans sent two trains to Iuka, but finding the track destroyed at Burnsville, they were compelled to return. While crossing back they were fired into without doing much damage. On Friday night five companies of Birge's

Col. Wilder numbered some 2,500. At the commencement of the fight they were reinforced by Col. Dunham's 50th Indiana regment. The first they knew of his being about was his pouring in a volley, killing many, and stampeding the balance. The federal loss is eight killed and twenty-seven wounded. Rebel loss from 500 to 700 killed and wounded. The rebels who brought in the flag of truce admit a loss of 400 killed. Two pieces of artillery were captured from the enemy. Rebel newspapers announce the arrival of a confederate gunboat in Mobile harbor from England. It is called the Florida and carries eight guns.
On Friday last Brig. Gen. Smith marched on Holly Springs, Miss., with a large force. He had a sharp engagement with the robels, in which he killed and wounded about a hundred, and took two hundred prisoners. He also destroyed a long trestle work on the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad and a mill. The trestle work will be very difficult to repair. Two large guns, which had recently been placed in the fortifications south of Memphis, were spiked by somebody last Friday night. Our forces have been withdrawn from Tuscumbia, and along the entire road to Cornith. There are also evidences for believing that Cornith, Bolivar, Jackson, in fact all of the interior of West Tennessee are for the present to be abandoned. To-Day's Report. [Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.] MORNING DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. The Star says at 9 a. m., to-day, the engagement at Burnside's position had not been renewed. He was then in undisputed possession of the advantage on the crest of the mountain, from which he drove the enemy the night before. The firing that commenced at day-break, to-day, was an attack of the enemy on Franklin's corps on the road to Harper's Ferry. No direct communication was had with that corps at 9 o'clock this morning. The telegraph operator at Point of Rocks reports that Franklin was heavily engaged, this morning, some miles in front of the operator.

The division or army corps that, yesterday morning, occupied Hagerstown, was not in yesterday's action, though it hastily retraced its steps in order to be in the fight to-day. Neither Sumner's army corps nor Couch's division was in action yesterday, though both are doubtless supporting

The rebels made occasional stands behind walls and fences, but were driven thence to the top of the mountain and over into the valley, when, it being night, our troops were called from further pursuit. Not one of our men faltered. This point the center. Two colonels were among the rebel slain, found on the field.

This forenoon the battle was fought principally with infantry on our part, it being impracticable to bring artillery into full play. CHEROKEE, Ala., Sept. 11, 1862.

EDITORS GAZETTE :-- After marching and countermarching up and down the line of the M. & C. R. R., for the past three weeks, we have at last brought up at a place away down in Alabama, called Cherokee. From Decatur to this place we have cleaned most of the cotton out of the country, and the niggers come without cleaning. We evacunted Tuscumbia at ten o'clock on the night of the 8th, after shipping thousands of bales of cotton, and about five thousand negroes, on the trains going west. The place is of little importance to the Union army now. Having gathered all the cotton in that section of country, we are evacuating the road gradually, and marching towards Iuka, Miss., but stop long enough in each place to gather and ship all the cotton to be found. The negroes are deserting their masters by hundreds. I have seen more than once, parties of more than 500 come in at one time, and at Tuscumbia, when I was officer of the provost guard, Col. Loomis and myself in one day took the job of feeding and housing not less than three thousand of all ages, sizes and colors. I see, here, every day, slaves as white as myself; and this morning I saw a child and mother at the depot-the mother had but very little of the negro features, and the child was as white as the whitest child in Janesville, with light, straight hair, and a slave. Just think that many such are here, and held and sold in bondage. But, thank God, the time has about come when all such folks can claim their freedom by just coming into our lines, and thousands are availing themselves of the blessed opportunity now afforded them.

2d division of the army of Mississippi has made its mark in northern Alabama, and the effect is terribly felt by the rebels here. Cotton is ready for the first picking, but there is nobody to pick it. We have in our regiment nearly 100 contrabands for cooks and teamsters, it makes a great increase in the army. By receiving them in that capacity it saves just that many men to the ranks. But what is to be done with all the women and children, is a question yet to be answered. I think at Tuscumbia we shipped not less than five thousand of them towards Corinth, and every station along the road is crowded with them. We also brought some thirty white families from there, refugees from the mountains, and about 250 recruits for the 1st Alabama mounted infantry, organizing at Iuka for the Union army, to sweep the rebel bands of robbers from this section of the country. Some of them walked over 100 miles to get into our lines to enlist and fight for the old flag, their homes, of contest was maintained by our troops of | their wives and little ones. Things will come out all right yet; we dont feel discouraged a particle yet, although things from Virginia are not as cheering as we should like to have them. There is always a calm after a storm. It's our turn'next. Troops are being concentrated in the west again, at a point not for me to say at presrebel lieutenant said it was their intention ont. They will make their mark when orders come to move again. The army is very healthy; in my company not one man is sick. Those at Inka came up this morning. I have one man at Keckuk, Iowa. who was sick when he went there, some three months since; but the last I heard from him he was all right, working in the harvest field and hunting for a discharge; his name is W. H. Soper. I think the doctor had better let him go home.

We are having fine times here now, living on the fat of the land. We have plenty of melous, peaches, apples, paw paws, musendines, tamarinds, sweet potatoes and yams, all of which grow here in abundance. of them proved to be wagons taken from Pea nuts are also grown here to a large Pope's army at Centreville. The Victory in Maryland.

It is confirmed that the federal arms were victorious in the battle of Sunday, near Middletown. The troops on our side were under the immediate command of Burnside, who made use of a little real strategy, and attacked the enemy in flank, where he did not expect it, and was driven over the crest of the mountain into the valley on the other side. One account says the infantry under Gibbons dragged some artillery to the top of the mountain and shelled the enemy from that position. As the 2d, 6th and 7th Wisconsin regiments were in this fectly proper; and this led to a debate by division, we may suppose that they were in | most of the statesmen of that day upon the the fight, sustaining the old flag with their usual bravery. The fifth regiment was al-

REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

A Republican Convention will be held in the city of Watertown, on Wednesday, September 24th 1862, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate to Congress from the Second Congressional District. All loyal electors of the district, without regard to past political differences, who, in this hour of national trial and peril, with sustain the state and fedaral administrations in a vigorous prosecution of the war, until rebellion is crushed, traitors punished, the integrity of the Union preserved, and the supremacy of the constitution and laws enforced and respected thre'out every state and territory included within the nutional boundaries, are invited to unite with the republicans in electing delegates to this convention. Each Assembly and Senatorial district will be entitled to two delegates in said convention. W. M. GRISWOLD, H. H. GILES, B. F. HOPKINS, LUTHER A. COLE.

J. M. BURGESS. Dated August 6, 1862.

The Victory in Maryland.

It is confirmed that the federal arms were victorious in the battle of Sunday, near Middletown. The troops on our side were under the immediate command of Burnside, who made use of a little real strategy, and attacked the enemy in flank, where he did not expect it, and was driven over the crest of the mountain into the valley on the other side. One account says the infantry under Gibbons dragged some artillery to the top of the mountain and shelled the enemy from that position. As the 2d, 6th and 7th Wisconsin regiments were in this division, we may suppose that they were in the fight, sustaining the old flag with their usual bravery. The fifth regiment was also, we suppose, in the fight, swith Hooker, who is mentioned.

Our dispatches, this afternoon, are silent in relation to the results of the batties yesterday. As we have a Baltimore date today, announcing the arrival of the body of | ted by any statute, or by any constitution." Gen. The War in the West.

After idling away the summer, Gen. Buell has permitted Bragg to slip by him and go to the aid of Kirby Smith in Kentucky. To prevent the junction of these two rebel principle of self defence which rises para generals he is obliged to abandon all the country in his department, south of Nashville, and it is even a question, whether the capital city itself will not be evacuated. Certainly it will be if any considerable misfortune happens to the federal arms in Kentucky. Gen. Buell's movements have here tion of martial law by Major General Jacktofore been slow, but we hope he will at son, my opinion is, that such proclamation is unknown to the constitution and laws of tack and defeat Bragg before he can get ever, he will have to move faster than he has ever done before. In the meantime he leaves the Thier was equally pointed; and we might quote under the protection of our army have declared their sentiments. Surely, with past experiences, there is little encouragement for Union sentiment in the south. It is safer at all times to be a rebel, under the Buell policy.

The Eighth Wisconsin in a Fight.

Our cofrespondent in the eighth regiment wrote on the 11th that they were about to leave the country in which they had been operating in North Alabama. It appears that they were carrying this design into execution, when on the 13th their brigade, in command of Col. Murphy, was attacked by 2,000 rebel cavalry three times, whom they repulsed each time. The attack was made while they were on a march from Iuka to Corinth. Reinforcements were sent to them by Gen. Rosecrans, Friday night, but have not been heard from. We have no doubt the boys are all right. They would not permit 2,000 rebel cavalry to get the better of them. Most likely, when we next hear of them each man will have a horse to ride.

The first draft in this country since the war of 1812, took place in Hartford, Conn., on Wednesday last. One of the selectmen of the city, with a handkerchief over his eyes, drew from a box the names of two hundred men who are to serve in the army for nine months. One alderman and one policeman were among the conscripts.

The News on Mr. Carpenter's Review of Mr. Ryan's Address.

[Concluded from 1st page.] tive power of the president, deliberately vi olate these three fundamental dogmas of Mr. Ryan's address, but he and his friends afterwards, in many places, and during many years, in speeches before the people in loval arguments, in state papers, in ports and debates before congress, added the weight of their opinion and their votes to sustain the conduct of Gen. Jackson; and thus to condemn the principles of this address.

After martial law ceased in New Orleans, the released Judge Hall called the con-quering hero before him to teach him that hereafter he must conduct wars inside the constitution; must not trammel the freedom of the press; must not make arrests in loyal states, and a great many other things, all of which can be found in Mr. Ryan's address. Upon this occasion Jackson deivered a long paper in his defence over his own signature, fully justifying his conduct, which fills eleven columns of the Niles Register, and every paragraph of which is in deadly antagonism with the doctrine of Mr. Ryan's address—(8 Niles Register, One paragragh will give an idea of 245).

"A writ of habeas corpus was directed for his (Louallier's) enlargement. The very case which had been foreseen, the very contingency on which martial law was intended to operate, had now occurred. The vivil magistrate seemed to think it his duty to enforce the enjoyment of civil rights, although the consequences which have been described would probably result. An un-bending sense of what he seemed to think the conduct which his station required, might have induced him to order the liberation of the prisoner. This, under the respondent's sense of duty, would have produced a conflict which it was his wish to avoid. No other course remained then, but to enforce the principles which he had laid down as his guide; and to suspend the exercise of this judicial power, whenever it interfered with the necessary means of defence. The only effectual way to do this was to place the judge in a situation in which his inter ference could not counteract the measures of defence, or give confidence to the muti nous disposition that had shown itself in so alarming a degree. Merely to have disobeyed the writ would have increased the evil, but to have obeyed it was wholly repug-nant to the respondent's idea of the public safety and to his own sense of duty. judge was therefore confined and removed beyond the lines of defence."

This document is signed with the great name, "Andrew Jackson." The judge, however, was inexorable, and Gen. Jackson was fined one thousand dollars, and paid his fine.

Subsequently, and after Gen. Jackson had been president, and had retired to private life, a bill was introduced into congross to refund the fine, upon the ground that the conduct of Jackson had been perfectly proper; and this led to a debate by most of the statesmen of that day upon the very point now under discussion.

Robert J. Walker, in the senate, submitted a report upon this subject, in which he said:
"The law which justified this act, was the great law of necessity; it was the law of self-defence. This great law of necessity-of defence of self, of home, and of country-never was designed to be abroga-

Mr. Payne, of Alabama, speaking upon this subject, said: "I shall not contend that the constitution or laws of the United States authorize the declaration of martial law, by any authority whatever; on the contrary, it is unknown to the constitu-tion or laws." And speaking of the argument that if the constitution did not auit would be immediately spread before the thorize it, the general ought not to declare martial law, he says: "Who could tolerate this idea? An Arnold might, but no patriotic American could. It may be asked, upon what principle a commander can de clare martial law, when it is conceded that the constitution or laws afford him no authority to do so? I answer, upon that mount to all written laws; and the justification of the officer who assumes the re sponsibility of acting upon that principle, must rest upon the necessity of the case."

Mr. Livingston, in a written document submitted by Jackson to the court as a part of his defence, gave his opinion as follows:
"On the nature and effect of the proclamathe United States; that it is to be justified leaves the Union men to their fate, who, many columns from the discussions of those days, equally to the point. Douglas him-self made his first great speech upon this subject; but as he is no longer recognized as a democrat, the News would never forgive my quoting his speech against Mr. Ryan's address.

One of General Jackson's letters, in justification of his military conduct, contains the following postscript: "It will be recollected that in the revolutionary war, at a time of great trial, General Washington ordered deserters to be shot without trial. Captain Reed under this order, having arrested three, had one shot without trial hut he (General Washington) reprimanded Reed for not shooting the whole three.

After the maturest consideration, congress paid back the fine; and thus was Jackson vindicated by the democratic party and by the nation in the vigorous exercise of power which marked his New Orleans campaign. And how fully and per fectly is Jackson vindicated by the people (the source of all authority) is the universal exclamation that now rises up from every patriotic American heart, "Oh! that Jackson were president to-day."

Washington and Jackson met the exirencies of war, not with statutes and constitutions; but with a healthy application of military law; and in the proper case with summary arrest, and speedy death. The severity and military vigor of Jackson's New Orleans compaign, would end this re-bellion in six weeks; hence Breckenridge labored to prove that the war, however, was limited by the constitution.

The principle announced by Brecken-ridge is elaborated, polished, hid in meal, sugared over with an artful expression of conceded truths, in this address; and democrats are bidden to fall down before it The News, the organ of this doctrin in Wis consin, says "the boys"—that is those who do not believe in it;—should read Jackson. Bowing to its authority, and willing to have our democracy corrected if it was in fault, the boys" have been to-day to the fountain head of democratic faith, illustrated by practice; not any barren recital of dead dogmas, but the living, abiding, daily counsel and conduct of Andrew Jackson; and it appears that if this address embodies democratic opinions, democracy has aprung up since Jackson went down in the grave Now, Mr. Editor of the News, the above quotations are the fruit of a reading of the times of Jackson, undertaken upon your suggestion. If you know any other father of democracy whose writings you think can be safely relied on to prove that the war power is limited by the constitution, please name him, and "the boys" will search and give you the result of the investigation.

Latest advices from the recent battles state that the rebel loss in killed and wounded is fifteen to twenty thousand. Our loss much less. The entire confederate army is panic stricken, and running in all direc tions. McClellan has sent out detachments in every direction, and expects to capture large numbers. Gen. Lee, of the rebel army, is badly wounded.

Hendquarters Army Potoniac, Sopt. 15. H. W. Halleck, Gen. in Chief: I have just heard from Gen. Hooker in the advance, who states the information is perfectly reliable, that the enemy is making for the river in a perfect panic, and Gen. Maj. Gen. H. W. HALLECK: I am happy to inform you that General Franklin's success on the left was as complete as that on the center and right, and resulted in getting possession of the gap, after a severe engagement in all parts the line. The troops, old and new, behaved with the utmost steadiness and gallantry, carrying, with but little assistance from our own artillery, very strong positions defended by artillery and infantry. I do not think our loss very severe. The corps of Generals D. H. Hill and Longstreet were engaged with our right. Trustworthy advices report the rebels 12,000 strong seventeen miles from the river. They are throwing up fortifications, and profess to be awaiting reinforcements to attack this city. We have taken forty-neven prisoners altogether. One of these, a private of a Georgia regiment, brought in to-day, was almost naked. He says he has been in the rebel army nearly a and had but one pair of shoes in that time, and no blanket. He had been barefooted six months.

There is no forward movement yet. Dispatches have been received from Buall at headquarters, but nothing is made public. A messenger also arrived from Gen. Morgan at Cumberland Gap, but nothing is public. There is great rejoicings over the Maryland victories.

We get the following from a correspondent who was on the ground on Sunday even-ing: The fighting ceased to-day with the setting of the sun, and both armies are busily engaged in removing the wounded and burying the dead. It is impossible at his time to tell the loss on our side during the day, but probably 200 or more.

Rebel prisoners say their loss was heavy. Ambulances are all busily engaged in taking the wounded to Middletown, where everything is in readiness for them.

MORNING DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. The Star says at 9 a. m., to day, the engagement at Burnside's position had not been renewed. He was then in undisputed possession of the advantage on the crest of the mountain, from which he drove the enemy the night before. The firing that commenced at day-break, to day, was an attack of the enemy on Franklin's corps on the road to Harper's Ferry. No direct communication was had with that corps at 9 o'clock this morning. The telegraph operator at Point of Rocks reports that Frank lin was heavily engaged, this morning, some miles in front of the operator.

The division or army corps that, yester-day morning, occupied Hagerstown, was not in yesterday's action, though it hastily retraced its steps in order to be in the fight to-day. Neither Sumner's army corps nor Couch's division was in action yesterlay, though both are doubtless supporting Franklin to day, as they were in position to do so yesterday.

The army corps of Fitz John Porter passed through Frederick to day at 8 s. m., and were to have arrived on the battle field at noon. Rebels who were in the fight say that Beauregard expected to join them today with army corps 40,000 strong. We have no idea that any such expectation of their's can be realized. Bornside's posi-tion, won from the enemy in yesterday's battle, commands the road from Hagers town to the position where Franklin is fighting, we believe, to-day; hence its great importance, to lose which will be most damaging to the enemy. CHEROKEE, Ala., Sept. 11, 1862. Entrops Gazetre :- After marching and countermarching up and down the line of the M. & C. R. R., for the past three weeks, we have at last brought up at a place away down in Alabama, called Cherokee. From Decatur to this place we have cleaned most of the cotton out of the country, and the niggers come without cleaning. We evacuated Tuscumbia at ten o'clock on the night of the 8th, after shipping thousands of bales of cotton, and about five thousand negroes, on the trains going west. The place is of little importance to the Union army now. Having gathered all the cotton in that section of country, we are evacuating the road gradually, and marching towards Iuka, Miss., but stop long enough in each place to gather and ship all the cotton to be found. The negroes are descriing their masters by hundreds. I have seen more than once, parties of more than 500 come in at one time, and at Tuscumbia, when I was officer of the provest guard, Col. Loomis and myself in one day took the job of feeding and housing not less than three thousand of all ages, sizes and colors. I see, here, every day, slaves as white as myself; and this morning I saw a child and mother at the depot-the mother had but very little of the negro features, and the child was as white as the whitest child in Janesville, with light, straight hair, and a slave. Just think that many such are here, and held and sold in bondage. But, thank God, the time has about come when all such folks can claim their freedom by just coming into our lines, and thousands are availing themselves of the blessed opportunity now afforded them. I will assure you the 2d brigade of the

2d division of the army of Mississippi has made its mark in northern Alabama, and the effect is terribly felt by the rebels here. Cotton is ready for the first picking, but there is nobody to pick it. We have in our regiment nearly 100 con-

trabands for cooks and teamsters, it makes a great increase in the army. By receiving them in that capacity it saves just that many men to the ranks. But what is to be done with all the women and children, is a question yet to be answered. I think at Tuscumbia we shipped not less than five thousand of them towards Corinth, and every station along the road is crowded engagement of yesterday was a drawn battte, and the enemy retained their position

Things will come out all right yet; we dont feel discouraged a particle yet, although things from Virginia are not as cheering as we should like to have them. There is always a calm after a storm. It's our turn next. Troops are being concentrated in the west again, at a point not for me to say at presrebel lieutenant said it was their intention ent. his name is W. H. Soper. I think the doctor had better let him go home. We are having fine times here now, living on the fat of the land. We have plenty of melons, peaches, apples, paw paws, muscadines, tamarinda, sweet potatoes and yams, all of which grow here in abundance. Pea nuts are also grown here to a large extent, and figs are cultivated in all the principal gardens of the planters, but are poor stuff to eat without being preserved. I have now occupied more of your time than I intended when I set down. I must close. My best respects to all friends, hoping I may, with my command, at the end of the war return safe home, to spend

LAURA A. PAYNE, both of Monroe, Green county, Wis. MARRIED.

At Afton, on Wednesday September 3d, HARRIST S. THOMAS, aged 22 years, 3 months and 17 days, wife of Nathan 6. Thomas and daughter of Rouben and Botsey Deuel. Another home is made desolate, Oh! so sadly desc ate | Yet, Christ hath said "In my Father's house are many mansions," and our dearly beleved one has only gone before us to occupy and beautify, with her sweet presence, until her bereaved and beloved companies and friends shall also "be gathered bome."

Oh! what sorrow, grief and sighing, Streams of tears in torrents flow, Streams of tears in torrents now, Oft occurs among the living
In this weary world of wee,
When the tyrant king of terror
Yells a household band with gloom
By consigning of its number,
One to tarry in the temb!

Humble rustic, and the royal, Must endure its pangs, aghast! Youth in bloom, and old are equal, Subject to its withering blast. Hosts of friends with wise physicians, Skilled to rescus life, near lest, Can't resist its mortal mission From a court—at suy cost.

Notwithstanding (it is stated) There remains a diadem,
Ready to reward the blessed
In the New Jernsalem!
There to dwell in joy forever,
Eree from earthly sugry ills,
Wosting to and by mid granduer,
'Pon her hallowed beauteous hills.

Likewise, Afton lost one lately
Whon we loved and cherished long,
While in turn, she shared most freely,
In our sorrows, grief and song.
Death allowed her not a moment
To bid any one good bye,
For the turbid, rushing torrent
Overwhelmed—she did but sigh!

Wofnl doom befell that dwelling, Woth from bone that avening, Once the happiest in the ville, Now an ornament of mourning; Nangah but gloon its closets fill, While the creeping vines and flowers Trained by Hattle, nest and gay, 'Long the little paths and bowers,

All a tereck now rotting luy.

Her loved friends and doar companion.
(Now in bitter angulah bent.)
Are not all who bear allittion.
O'r the mournful late event.
Eolian zephyrs, sweet and softly
Through the trees where none intrude.
Chimes a doleful dirge, 'round Hattie's
Bilent house, in solitude.

EDS. GAZETTE:-We left Scofield Barracks, St. Louis, at two o'clock Tuesday: afternoon, and marched to the river, where we embarked on the steamer John J. Ros, engaged in transporting troops and government stores. The steamer-staffed down stream at five o'clock, and after going about 40 miles tied up for the night, as there were dangerous bars ahead. We left the landing about eight o'clock the next morning, and kept on our way till night, when we again tied up, within lifty miles of Cairo, and passed the pight as comfortably as could be expected with those large sized musquitoes for companions. This morning we were off at day-break, and reached Cairo at nine o'clock The hoat stopped an hour at this place, and the boys improved the opportunity to look about them. cording to their accounts no serious trouble is approbended below, at present.

The citizens of Janesville must be pretty well posted in regard to the 12th Battery. We were in St. Louis one week, and during that time Lieut. Harlow carried 300 letters to the post-office, directed to Janesville, and there were at least 100 put into the office at the barracks. Arms have not yet been furnished us, and I do not know as we shall receive any. We leave for Corinth to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, by railroad. Our mail is to be directed to Cairo, it will reach us from there. Yours. W. S. B.

NARROW ESCAPE AND PRESENCE OF MIND. -Yesterday afternoon while Mrs. S. D. Butz, of the town of Milton, and two daughters, were driving into town in a buggy, the horse became frightened opposite the residence of Hiram Taylor, by the buggy running upon him, and started at full speed down the hill. One of the daughters was driving at the time, and she kept the roins, avoiding everything in the street, until the horse reached Main street, when her strength gave out, and she passed the reins to her mother. The horse crossed the bridge, Mrs. B. still keeping him clear of all obstructions. At the end of the bridge he commenced kicking, and opposite the Central Bank threw himself on the ground by kicking over one of the thills. Here the whole party were helped from the buggy with . no other injury to any one or anything than the breaking of the thill. Such presence of mind is unusual, and the highest commendations upon the coolness and skill of the drivers succeeded the most intense anxiety for their safety while the horse was making his dangerous passage through our erowded streets.

The Blood is the Life.—No more shall the poor sufferers in our country languish, their constitutions racked and torn by itrong and dangerous mineral medicines; they will come to the fountain of leadth, found in simple herbs and roots from nature's storehouse. THE MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS, of innocent mountain plants composed, will reach and stop their distress, and cause the blood, renewed and cleansed, to carry through the body the elements of health; building up the broken constitution, and carrying life and health, where but for them would have been the wreck of hope—the feeble mean of suffering, at last ended by the cold hand of death. De not let prejudice overcome your better reason; do not let your despair, after trying everything else, prevent you from trying these. The blood must be pure, and then sickness is impossible. NEW YORK, May 1, 1861.

Mr. Hu. T. Culter, Jr., Louisville, Ky:—

Dean Sin:—The great difficulty experienced in procuring Brandy sufficiently pure for medicinal purposes, has induced many of the physicians of this vicinity to adopt Hourbon Whisky as a substitute, both in the hospitals and private practice; and, since the latter has come into such general use, we have reason to believe that a great deal now sold is of very inferior quality.

Presuning that your residence in the vicinity of the manufacturers of Whisky in Kentuchy, as well as your skill as a chemist, will canable you to select a reliable article, and having full confidence in your integrity, we are led to enquire whother you will not ald us in having this market supplied, through an Agency, with the best quality of Pure Old Bourbon Whisky for the use of the yick. REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVMN-

The Republicans of Rock County will meet in Convention, by their delegates, at the Court Room, in Myers' Block, City of Janesville, on Wednes day, the 17th day of September, 1862, at 12 o'clock noon, to nominate candidates for county officers The respective towns and wards will be entitled to delegates as follows:—

Dated August TRh, 1882.
J. J. R. PEASE,
J. H. FRENCH, [Republican
A. M. GANTER, County Committee,
W. A. NORTON,] Postponement of the Draft.

Under authority from the secretary of war, Gov. Salomon gives notice that the time for volunteering to fill old regiments is extended indefinitely. We suppose this also suspends drafting, in this state, until further orders. Correspondence of the Daily Gazette.

From the 12th Wisconsin Battery. COLUMBUS, Ky., Sept. 11.

EDS. GAZETTE:-We left Scofield Barracks, St. Louis, at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and marched to the river, where we embarked on the steamer John J. Roe, engaged in transporting troops and government stores. The steamer started down stream at five o'clock, and after going about 40 miles tied up for the night, as there were dangerous bars ahead. We left the landing about eight o'clock the next morning, and kept on our way till night, when we again tied up, within fifty miles of Caire, and passed the night as comfortably as could be expected with those large sized musquitoes for companions. This morning we were off at day break, and reached Cairo at nine o'clock The boat stopped an hour at this place, and the boys improved the opportunity to look about them. Battery G, 1st Missouri regiment, was here on its way to Cincinnati. The horses and men looked as though they had seen hard service; it was enough to make one ashamed of his new clothes to look at them with their old, worn out uniforms. However, they tell us that good clothes will not trouble us after we have been in service a few months. After leaving Cairo, we made a quick run to Columbus, arriving here at noon. We expected to meet the 13th Wisconsin here, but they have left, I don't know where they ail are; company B, I believe, is at Clarksville, and some other companies of the regiment are at Hickman. We have been up on the hill examining the earthworks, but as you have had several better descriptions of them than I can give, I will not trouble you.

Troops have been coming in here all day from Corinth, bound for Cincinnati. Ac But the old stay will triumph yet. The sol cording to their accounts no serious trouble diers will regild its folds, now polluted by is apprehended below, at present.

well posted in regard to the 12th Battery. We were in St. Louis one week, and during that time Lieut. Harlow carried 300 letters to the post office, directed to Janesville, and there were at least 100 put into the office at the barracks. Arms have not yet been furnished us, and I do not know as we shall receive any. We leave for Corinth to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, by railroad. Our mail is to be directed to Cairo, it will reach us from there. W. S. B. Yours,

The Ladies Hospital Relief Society will meet at the house of Rev. M. P. Kinney, on Wednesday, Sept. 17th, from one o'clock till five o'clock P. M.

MARIA F. CLARK, Secretary.

CALIFORNIA CUCUMBER .- Mr. Chas. C. Shearer has left a specimen of this "fruit" at our office. It was raised by Albert Cummings, of Roscoe, Ill., is four feet ten inches long, weighs fifteen pounds, and graces the compositors' " picture gallery."

NARROW ESCAPE AND PRESENCE OF MIND. -Yesterday afternoon while Mrs. S. D. Butz, of the town of Milton, and two daughters, were driving into town in a buggy, the borse became frightened opposite the residence of Hiram Taylor, by the buggy running upon him, and started at full speed down the hill. One of the daughters was driving at the time, and she kept the reins, avoiding everything in the street, until the horse reached Main street, when her strength gave out, and she passed the reins to her mother. The horse crossed the bridge, Mrs. B. still keeping him clear of all obstructions. At the end of the bridge he commenced kicking, and opposite the Central Bank threw himself on the ground by kicking over one of the thills. Here the whole party were helped from the buggy with no other injury to any one or anything than the breaking of the thill. Such presence of mind is unusual, and the highest commendations upon the coolness and skill of the drivers succeeded the most intense anxiety for their safety while the horse was making his dangerous passage through our crowded streets.

FROM CINCINNATI.-The rebelt do not appear to have retired far from Cincinnati, and this for the purpose of getting water. It is believed that they mean to make an attempt to take the city. While they wait, however, immense forces are gathering against them. We can now see how unprofitable our own delays have been in the face of the enemy.

Examination of Teachers.

the year will be held at the following times and places, commencing in each instance at 98 A. M. :

Sept. 15th, 16th and 17th at the school house in the village of Afton. Sept. 18th, 19th and 20th at the school house in the village of Avon. Sept. 22d, 23d and 24th at the school UPHOLSTERING, house in the village of Orfordville.

Sept. 29th and 30th, and Oct. 1st at the school house in the village of Union. Oct. 2d, 3d and 4th at the school house in the village of Johnstown. Oct. 6th, 7th and 8th at the school house in the village of Fulton.

Oct. 13th, 14th and 15th at the school house in the village of Milton. Oct. 20th, 21st and 22d at the school building in Shopiere. The examinations will be public, and will be conducted by written and oral questions and answers. Applicants for third grade certificates will be examined in Orthcepy, Orthography, Reading, Penmanship, Intellectual and Written Arithmetic, Primary Grammar and Geography. For second grade certificates, in addition to the above mentioned branches, in Grammatical Analysis, Physiology, Physical Geography, Elementary Algebra, United States History and Theory and Practice of Teaching.

For first grade certificates, in addition to all the above, in Higher Algebra, Natural Philosophy and Geometry.

Teachers can attend any examination most convenient of access without regard to boundary lines of inspection districts. No teacher will be examined at times other than the public examinations without satisfactory proof that absence from public examination was necessary and unavoidable. (See sec. 12, chap. 176 General Laws of 1862.)

Teachers holding certificates given at the spring examination must be re-examined in order to teach in another town than that for which the certificate was given.

Certificates given since the spring examination are of effect until the next public examination only. Teachers' institutes, of from one to three days each, will be held, commencing on Thursday of examination week, in Orfordville, Fulton, Milton and Shopiere.

School district officers are respectfully nvited to be present at the examinations. J. I. FOOT, County Supt. of Schools. Footville, September 1862.

Wm. R. Graham, of this city, has been commissioned supernumerary 2d lieutenant of the 2d Wisconsin cayalry.

FINE DAHLIAS.-Mr. Kellogg sends us a boquet from his nursery of a fine collection of dahlias and other flowers. He has a great variety for sale.

Col. Brodhead's Last Letter.

Correspondence of the New York Express

Washington, Sept. 8.

I see you have noticed the letter of Col. Brodhead, of the Michigan regiment, addressed to his brother in this city, the pre-sent comptroller of the treasury. I have obtained a full copy of it, as follows:

" Dear Brother and Sister :- I am passing now from earth, but send you love from my dying couch. For all your love and kindness may you be rewarded. I have fought manfully, and now die fearlessly. I am one of the victims of Pope's imbecility and McDowell's treason. Tell the president, would he save the country, he must not give our hallowed flag into such hands imbecility and treason. John, you owe a duty to your country. Write! Show up The citizens of Janesville must be pretty Pope's incompetency and McDowell's infamy, and force them from places where they can send brave men to assured destruction I had hoped to have lived longer, but I die amid the ring and clamor of battle, as I could wish. Farewell! To you and the noble officers of my regiment I confide wife THORNTON. and children. The above was written upon the blank leaf of an old letter, and blood-stained. Col. Brodhead died within half an hour after he scrawled it off.

The Blood is the Life.—No more shall the poor sufferers in our country langulsh, their constitutions racked and torn by strong and dangerous mineral medicines; they will come to the fountain of health, found in simple herbs and roots from nature's storehouse. THE MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS, of innocent mountain plants composed, will reach and stop their distress, and cause the blood, renewed and cleansed, to carry through the body the elements of health; building up the broken constitution, and carrying life and health, where but for them would have been the wreck of hope—tine feeble monn of suffering, at last ended by the cold hand of death. Do not let preindice overcome your better reason; do not look upon these Pills as only like others; do not let your despuir, after trying everything olse, prevent you from trying these. The blood must be pure, and then sickness is impossible. What a great and yet simple trath: Is this it appeals to the common seems of all; it is the great key-stone of the healing art. JUDSON'S MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS will purify and cleanse it as sure as the sun will rise to norrow.

Mr. Um. T. Cutter, Jr., Lonisville, Ky:—

Dean Sin:—The great difficulty experienced in procuring Brandy sadiciently pure for medicinal purposes, has induced many of the physicians of this vicinity to adopt Bourbon Whisky as a substitut, both in the hospitals and private practice; and, since the latter has come into such general use, we have reason to believe that a great deal now sold is of very inferior quality.

Fresuming that your residence in the vicinity of the manufacturers of Whisky in Kentucky, as well as your skill as a chemist, will enable you to select a reliable article, and having full confidence in your integrity, we are led to enquire whether you will not add us in having this market suppled, through an Agency, with the best quality of Pure Old Bourbon Whisky for the use of the sick.
